Professors Majumdar and Xu Discover an Important First Step Towards Building Electrically Pumped Nano-Lasers
Submitted by Shane D Debolt on January 26, 2017 - 12:00am

When an individual uses Facebook or searches Google, the information processing happens in a large data center. Short distance optical interconnects can improve the performance of these data centers. Current systems utilize electrons, which could...

Read more